DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 21-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. In the instant case, with respect to claim 21, applicant's specification does not describe in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor had possession of the "multicrystalline particle" claim limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 21-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rippere (4,120,758) in view of Lee (6,346,181). Rippere teaches suspending the multicrystalline particles in a suspension and (col. 3, ll. 35-45); co-depositing the particles along with at least one component of the suspension; and forming a desired structure (col. 6, ll. 18-30); wherein the applying step comprises controlling at least one deposition location of the particles; wherein the applying step comprises controlling a particle loading (col. 4, ll. 15-25); wherein the particles are magnetic (col. 7, ll. 50-60); wherein the particles have been coated with at least one coating (col. 6, ll. 18-30); wherein the suspending step comprises suspending the particles in an electrolytic solution (col. 4, ll. 15-25); co-depositing in one deposition step at least two materials with incompatible electropotentials (col. 7, ll. 50-60). Lee teaches applying at least one magnetic field to the particles in order to vary the orientation (location) of the particles (col. 3, ll. 1-15). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the method of Rippere to utilize the magnetic field in order to orient or provide a particular location of the plated layer in order to provide superior toughness (Lee col. 2, ll. 1-67)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claim 33 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 6,402,923 (Mayer). Mayer teaches providing seed metallization to only a portion of a surface of the via (figure 1, item 110); and filling the via with material comprising conducting particles (col. 2).

Claim Allowance

Claims 29-32 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 21-28 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
